Officers responded to a report of a home invasion that just occurred. Investigation revealed the 40-year-old female resident was sleeping on the couch and her 17-year-old daughter was working at the computer. The 17-year-old heard a noise at the front door and assumed it was her older brother arriving home. When she turned around, she observed an unknown male inside the room. When she confronted him, he said he just wanted to talk to her and then ran out the door. The 17-year-old screamed, which woke her mother. They recognized the suspect from their apartment complex, as well as his car, which was parked nearby. They removed the keys from the ignition. Investigation revealed the suspect gained entry by cutting a screen over one of the windows and crawled through. A Police K-9 Unit initiated a track. When they knocked on the door, the female that had been driving the mini van met them. They located and took the suspect into custody in that apartment with out incident. He had changed clothes. Vandalism Prevention

The best way to protect yourself from this crime, or from being held financially responsible for the acts of your kids, is to know where your children are, what they are doing, and whom their friends are. Kids are very tech-savvy, and use the latest means to communicate. We have had numerous cases where middle and high-school aged kids have made clandestine plans using their home computer and instant-messaging programs (AIM, Yahoo Messenger, etc.) to communicate with their friends, unbeknownst to their parents (no phones ringing in the middle of the night.) They sneak out of the house and meet up to go and commit all sorts of crimes. This is not only illegal, but it is very dangerous.

- Talk with your kids and dumped the fittings over the fence. Both suspects loaded the van with the fittings and then departed. The box contained 3-4 thousand pounds of stainless steel fittings valued at approximately $10,000.00. It was the only box of that type of stainless steel in the yard. Further investigation revealed the barbed wire on the fence where the van backed up was apparently cut prior to suspects' arrival, as they are not observed cutting it on the video. The Bobcat was found with the keys in it, which is not normal protocol. Finally, the box of fittings may have been pre-staged, as it was set aside from where other boxes of materials were lined up together. The video is available but needs to be taped from a PD computer monitor. The business is offering a $1000.00 reward for information leading to the identification and arrest of the suspects.
