Troy Marriott, 200 W. Big Beaver, 9/1, 0125 hrs.

Complainant reported having trouble with approximately 20 youths between 14-20 years old staying at the hotel for a youth basketball tournament who were being disruptive in the lobby and common areas. Management was unable to locate a responsible party for the group. Officers responded and assisted security returning the parties to their rooms. While the officers were so-doing, the on-site hotel supervisor reported trouble with a coach/chaperone at the front desk. Officers responded there and spoke with a 31-year-old male subject from Staten Island, New York. He smelled of intoxicants and his speech was slurred. The supervisor indicated he approached her at the desk, became confrontational and was using profanities, telling her to leave his kids alone. She stated she asked him to stop swearing and return to his room. She stated he refused. She stated she then asked him several times to leave the property, but he would not leave the front desk. Officers escorted him out the front entrance and offered transportation to a nearby hotel. Officers asked him several times to leave and explained based on management's direction, that if he continued to refuse he would be subject to arrest for trespass. He began walking back inside and told officers to arrest him. He was advised he was under arrest and handcuffed. He began resisting their attempts to place him inside a police car. Control was eventually gained and he was secured in the back seat. Upon arrival at the station, he refused to exit the police car and had to be carried into the jail. During processing he blew 0.14 on a preliminary breath test. He was charged with "Trespassing," and "Hinder/Obstruct/Resist Police."
